

True Potential Goldman Sachs Income Builder

29 May 2026

Fund objective

The Fund aims to provide income (paid monthly), whilst offering the potential for growth. The fund also aims to achieve its objectives with a lower volatility (a measure of the size of short term changes in the value of an investment) than the MSCI World Index.

May Update

Global equities rose again in May amid hopes of a de-escalation in the Middle East and rally in artificial-intelligence (AI) names. Emerging Market (EM) equities led the gains and outpaced their developed market counterparts, driven by South Korea and Taiwan. In developed markets, US technology shares outperformed, while UK equities proved a laggard. In fixed income, UK Gilts did well, while US Treasuries underperformed.

The True Potential Goldman Sachs Income Builder Fund returned 0.92% (net of fees). The Fund's underexposure to equities hindered performance in a strong month for the asset class. The Fund's allocation to high dividend yield shares proved unhelpful as they lagged the broader market. Security selection also weighed on performance, with the Fund's exposure to energy giants Chevron, Shell and TotalEnergies delivering negative returns over the period. Other notable detractors included American retailer Walmart and plumbing and HVAC company Ferguson Enterprises. Conversely, key contributors included technology names Infineon Technologies, Cisco and Microsoft. In fixed income, the Fund's large allocation to global high-yield bonds outpaced their investment-grade peers yet underperformed global equities. Elsewhere within the segment, the exposure to EM debt was supportive while a modest allocation to US Treasuries detracted over the period.

Risk type	Description
Performance Risk	Investment objectives express an intended result but there is no guarantee that such a result will be achieved. Depending on market conditions and the macro-economic environment, certain investment types and styles may perform better than others and investment objectives may become more difficult to achieve.
Counterparty Risk	There may be cases where the organisation from which we buy a derivative, or an asset, fails to meet its obligations. The Fund's cash deposits are also subject to counterparty risk.
Derivative Risk	The Fund is entitled to use derivatives. Derivatives may not achieve their intended purpose. Their prices may move up or down significantly over relatively short periods of time which may result in losses greater than the amount paid.
Operational Risk	The Fund faces non-market risk, relating to purchasing, holding and servicing the Fund's assets.
Credit Risk	Where the Fund invests in bonds, there is a risk the bond issuer may fail to meet its repayments. Changes in interest rates, inflation and the creditworthiness of the bond issuer may also affect the bond's market value. This risk is particularly relevant where the fund invests in bonds with a lower credit rating.
Exchange Rate Risk	The Fund may invest in securities not denominated in GBP. The value of your investments may be affected by changes in currency exchange rates.
Liquidity Risk	Certain market conditions could make sufficiently liquid assets difficult to sell quickly at a fair price. This could result in an unpredictable fall in the value, and overall liquidity of the Fund.
